DRUG RECOGNITION EXPERTS (DRE) ARE CRACKING DOWN!

New Jersey has certified over a thousand police officers who are specially trained to identify driving impairment from substances other than alcohol. Even with no traces of alcohol, a driver can be arrested and convicted of DWI based on the observations and results of tests performed by the DRE. They are out patrolling our roadways and more are being trained every year!

A National Highway Traffic Safety Administration 2013-2014 Roadside Survey found that more than 22 percent of drivers tested positive for illegal, prescription, or over-the-counter drugs.

Impairment from drugged driving can slow reaction time, hinder judgment of time and distance, cause aggressive or reckless driving and even cause dizziness and drowsiness.

Although younger drivers are more likely to take illegal drugs and drive, motorists of all ages take prescription drugs that can cause impairment, which when combined with even a small amount of alcohol can be extremely dangerous.
